Terms and Conditions:
Use of Registration Code for Negotiated Rates
World Mining Congress 2026

This document sets forth the rules governing the use of the promotional code granted to participants duly registered for the World Mining Congress (WMC) 2026.

1. Nature of the Benefit and Third-Party Management:
   The registration code grants exclusive access to special negotiated rates at selected hotels for the event. This benefit is personal and non-transferable. However, the participant may delegate the management of their reservation to a third party (assistant, travel agency, company, etc.), who must present the holder's registration code. In all cases, application of the benefit is subject to code validation and the single-use policies described in this document.

   The code holder shall be responsible for any use made of the code by third parties, including improper use, errors in reservation management, or any consequences arising from its use.

2. Requirement for Obtaining the Code:
   To receive the code, the participant must have successfully completed their registration and payment process in the Instituto de Ingenieros de Minas del Perú (IIMP) system. Once payment has been validated, the system will generate a unique code that will include the initials "WMC".

3. Single-Use Condition and Validation:
   Each code is valid for one reservation and one single use only, regardless of who carries out the process (the holder or a third party). Once the code has been validated and applied by a hotel establishment, it will be automatically disabled for any other transaction, additional reservation, or attempt to use it at other partner hotels.

4. Reservation and Validation Process:
   - The participant or the authorized third party (assistant/agency) must provide the code generated by IIMP to the selected hotel establishment at the time of requesting a quotation or making a reservation.
   - The hotel establishment will coordinate with the WMC 2026 organization to validate the code in order to verify its authenticity and confirm that it has not been used previously.
   - The application of the negotiated rate will be subject to the code appearing as "Valid." If the code appears as "Used" or "Invalid," the establishment will reject the application of the special rate.

5. Restrictions and Control:

Strict real-time control will be maintained over the use of each code. The sale, transfer, or duplication of the code is prohibited. Any attempt at fraudulent use will result in the cancellation of the benefit without the right to claim.

6. Validity:
   The negotiated rates are valid only for the dates falling within the time frame of the World Mining Congress 2026.

7. Rate Availability and Limitation of Liability:
   Please note that these rates are subject to availability by the hotel establishment at the time the reservation is made. Obtaining the registration code does not guarantee a room reservation if the hotel's allotment has been fully booked. Consequently, IIMP shall not be held liable if the participant is unable to complete a reservation due to lack of availability or capacity at the selected hotels.

   IIMP is not part of the contractual relationship that may arise between the participant and the hotel establishment, the latter being solely responsible for the provision of accommodation services, as well as for any breach, modification, cancellation, or inconvenience that may arise in connection with the reservation.
